HC/00293/12	Number of reports in Alton area of drink-spiking in the last 3 years.	There is not a single offence classification for 'drink spiking'. This would most likely be classified as one of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • administering a substance with intent to commit a sexual offence • administering poison with intent to injure or annoy • administering poison so as to endanger life I have therefore undertaken a search for any of these offence classifications with an occurrence location in Alton over a date range covering the last 3 years. This search has not produced any results, suggesting that this type of crime has not previously been reported in the Alton area.

PNC – Police National Computer PND – Police National Database NSBIS – National Special Branch Information System CRIS – Crime Recording Information System Hampshire Constabulary can neither confirm or deny that any further information relevant to your request is held by the force by virtue of the following exemptions: Section 23(5) Information supplied by, or concerning, certain security bodies Section 24(2) National Security Section 31(3) Law enforcement Providing any additional confirmation or denial as to the systems that might be used by the police service to effectively safeguard matters of national security would improve public confidence in the work of the police and reassure them that the services and equipment available to the police are appropriate, fit for purpose and robust. This would thereby help facilitate an informed public debate on how information of the nature requested is held and shared. Set against these considerations, if we were to confirm or deny that such information was or was not held, we might prejudice the Government's ability to maintain national security. It is not in the public interest to disclose the capabilities of the police service and other UK authorities (including bodies listed at section 23(3) of the Act) and the techniques that they may or may not use to safeguard the country. This would allow determined individuals the ability to, over time, identify which public authorities hold certain types of national security information and which do not, thereby allowing inferences to be drawn (some of which may be incorrect) about what authorities or bodies might have an interest in certain matters of national security.

		Whilst there is a public interest in providing reassurance that the Police Service are appropriately and effectively holding information of this nature, there is a stronger public interest in safeguarding national security. Any response that has the potential to undermine ongoing and future operations to protect the security of the United Kingdom would significantly increase the risk of harm to the community at large. Such actions would obviously not be in the best interest of the public. Providing any notice that confirms or denies the existence of specific policing intelligence systems would make these security measures less effective. This would lead to the compromise of ongoing or future operations to protect the security or infrastructure of the UK and increase the risk of harm to the public; again something that would not be in the best interest of the general public. 3. Purchase cost £2,042,400 Support and Maintenance £319,000 (budget 2012/12) PND is an information sharing tool used by the force.
